Tax Credit Spotlight

This month's spotlight is a two-story frame residence with stacked front porches built in 1915 for J. Rhett Clark. The house is located in Columbia's first suburb, Old Shandon, a National Register of Historic Places district. In the 1920s, Clark developed extensive ornamental gardens on the property's grounds. In the late 1970s, the Hubbard family purchased the property and rehabilitated the garden and house. In 2020, the current owners earned historic rehabilitation tax credits. Their extensive, exemplary rehabilitation included repairing the foundation; leveling the floors; repairing interior plasterwork; replacing deteriorated ductwork and upgrading the HVAC system; remediating mold; painting the exterior trim and windows; updating interior spaces with compatible designs and materials; and rehabilitating the interior of a historic accessory building. The rehabilitation of this early 20th century home was completed in 2020 with the use of the state homeowner historic rehabilitation tax credits. For more information about the homeowner tax credit program visit <https://scdah.sc.gov/historic-preservation/programs/tax-incentives/homeowner>.
